

FRENCH PROPOSALS LEAK OUT IN BERLIN

Apparently Inspired Article in the "Lokal Anzeiger" Tells of "Economic" Difficulties.

IDEAS ARE IN TREATY FORM

Article Indicates Total Lack of Confidence in Republic's Good Faith Unless Backed Up by Substantial Guarantees.

Berlin, Sept. 5.—The nervousness due to the protracted negotiations with France seems to have increased rather than decreased with the resumption at the German Foreign Office yesterday of the conversations between the French Ambassador and the German Foreign Minister.

The French proposals to Germany, according to an apparently inspired article printed to-day in the "Lokal Anzeiger," were submitted in the form of an elaborate draft of a treaty.

France, the paper says, is not haggling over the question of territorial compensation, provided she obtains a free hand in Morocco. Germany is willing to grant her full political freedom of action in Morocco on condition that the corresponding political obligations are assumed by her, including the protection of life and property of German subjects, thus putting an end to the anomalous situation under which the French authorities have sheltered themselves behind the native regime when German rights were infringed.

Economic arrangements, it would appear, are offering the chief difficulty in the way of a settlement. Germany, according to the "Lokal Anzeiger," must insist upon the most minute guarantees for her economic and commercial interests, as the French government, unfortunately, under the pressure of concession hunters, has a constant tendency to violate and evade obligations in this respect. Mineral deposits must be opened unrestrictedly to all nations without taxes, export duties or other devices which might shut out competition. The tone of the article indicates a total lack of confidence in France's good faith unless backed up by the most substantial guarantees.

The "Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung" says that it expects the Franco-German negotiations will proceed more smoothly now than they did before they were interrupted.

Wild rumors are being circulated in the German provincial towns. At Stettin large sums of money have been withdrawn from the savings banks, this action on the part of the people being influenced by rumors that war is impending. The banks are enforcing the rule that notice of the intention of depositors to withdraw funds must be given in advance, and the officials have published communications showing the baselessness of the reports.

Other rumors circulating on the Alsatian frontier, to the effect that the German Ambassador to France, Baron von Schoen, had been murdered in Paris and that Germany would declare war immediately, were strengthened by the return of a dragoon regiment to Colmar, the capital of Upper Alsace, from the scene of the army maneuvers. An outbreak of dysentery among the troops, however, was the reason for their return to barracks.

There was no meeting to-day between M. Cambon and Herr von Kiderlen-Wächter, but it is possible that another conference will be held to-morrow after the German Imperial Chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, returns to the capital from Klef.

Early in May, according to the Church officials, Mr. Davis wrote to the German Ambassador to France, Baron von Schoen, had been murdered in Paris and that Germany would declare war immediately. This was the last heard from the minister. At the end of this trip he expected to return to the United States to study medicine, and it was for this reason that Mr. Boger had been sent to succor him.

Mr. Davis was about thirty-two years old and married, his wife accompanying him. He was from Washington State, and had been in charge of the British Guiana Mission about five years.

SIR H. TREE AS MACBETH

A Logical Character Study, but Not One of Actor's Best.

(By Cable to the Tribune.) London, Sept. 5.—The revival of "Macbeth" at His Majesty's Theatre to-night was chiefly remarkable for the weirdness of the stage effects in the heath, castle and cauldron scenes and for the inventiveness shown in the visualizing of Banquo's ghost.

Sir Herbert Tree, like Irving before him, reduces the composite character of Macbeth to its elemental form and accentuates the Scottish chieftain's physical courage as a warrior and his supernatural faith in supernatural agencies.

It is a logical character study worked out with lucidity of mind, but it cannot be set down as one of his best parts.

Arthur Bourchier was, of course, a stalwart and strenuous Macduff, and the battle scenes were vivid and admirably stage managed.

Miss Violet Van Brugh has softened and improved her original impersonation of Lady Macbeth, which was cold, metallic and unnatural. Traces of womanly sensibility were revealed in to-night's portrayal, and the spectral form in the sleep walking scene was converted into an intensely human figure.

The play was received with enthusiasm by a large and brilliant house.

ADVOCATES RECIPROCITY

English Ex-Official Derides Fear of Annexation.

Portsmouth, Sept. 5.—The feature of today's session of the British Association was a paper on the subject of reciprocity between the United States and Canada, read by Charles E. Mallet, ex-financial secretary to the War Office and former member of Parliament for Plymouth.

Mr. Mallet strongly approved the Canadian-American agreement and derided the suggestion that it would lead to annexation. "The Canadian nationality is far too great a living force to-day," the speaker said, "to be swallowed up in the United States."

Mr. Mallet maintained that if Great Britain attempted to interfere with the arrangement the government would not only be violating one of the first maxims of the British Empire, namely, fiscal freedom for the self-governing dominions, but it would be asking the greatest Britons to turn her back on the greatest market in the world."

The speaker argued that anything which increased the national development of Canada would be a source of imperial strength.

NATIVES KILL MISSIONARY

The Rev. O. E. Davis Reported Murdered in British Guiana.

Georgetown, British Guiana, Sept. 5.—The Rev. O. E. Davis, superintendent of the British Guiana Mission, of the Seventh Day Adventist denomination, the headquarters of which are at Washington, has been murdered in the interior, while proselytizing among the natives.

Washington, Sept. 5.—A cable message received at the headquarters of the Seventh Day Adventists here, to-day, says that the Rev. O. E. Davis, superintendent of the British Guiana Mission, was murdered in the second or third week in July. The message, which was from the Rev. E. C. Boger, of California, who had been sent to succeed Mr. Davis, contained no details.

President McKinley had with him plans which had been practically approved for the New Theatre, having received them from Whitney Warren, the architect, whom he saw in Paris. He didn't care to discuss the plans, however, and said he did not know who the new director of the theatre would be.

President Chisholm, of the International Paper Company, deplored the "attacks" on corporations in this country. He said they were making investors wary, boosting the price of money and keeping up the price of commodities in consequence.

He cited the case of paper as an example. He also took occasion to object to the attitude of the President and Congress on reciprocity with Canada, predicting the downfall of the Republican party next year as a result of it.

Every effort to get Miss Grigsby to talk about her alleged social triumphs in England, about her reasons for visiting once more the city, was fruitless, as she had been given to give out about the sale of the house furnished and left to her by the late Charles T. Yerkes and about all the other loose threads of news which concern her so closely proved futile. A negro manservant stationed himself outside her state-room door on B deck, and smilingly refused to announce callers or tell in messages. Until the ship's gangplank was lowered she remained within.

Miss Grigsby's Cases of Jewels.

At the pier she was met by Hamilton Bushy, described as her grandfather and attorney. Mr. Bushy's duties involved negotiations with the customs men. Miss Grigsby brought over with her two large cases of jewelry, said to be valued at $80,000. She had forty pieces of baggage, which took the customs men three and a half hours to examine. She declared she had taken the jewelry out of the country with her when she went to England to live last spring. Deputy Surveyor John P. Connor took her behind the cage in the counting room on the pier, and together they went carefully over necklaces, rings, pins and brooches, while the curious both professional and amateur, watched the diamonds sparkle through the windows.
